

CEAS is a Win-Win Proposition for Everyone Involved

Private-Sector Benefits

- Quickly determines how the business was affected by the event and can take steps necessary to mitigate further damage to facilities and essential business processes.
- Allows private entities to get a head start on recovery activities.
- Allows businesses to execute their business continuity plans.
- Creates a valuable, actionable partnership with government, public-safety agencies.

Learn More...

Public-Sector Benefits

- Creates a process and protocol for post crisis re-entry.
- Provides a tool for law enforcement to effectively control access to restricted areas and screen essential private-sector employees.
- Speeds recovery to community-dependent, privately owned critical infrastructure.
- Improves the private sector's ability to provide community resources and lifeline services and promotes the return to normalcy.
- No cost for government.

Learn More...

Community Benefits

- The private sector provides material and personnel resources that communities rely on to recover and resume normal lives.
- The restoration of resources and infrastructure allows community members to become self-dependent instead of depending on governments to provide.
- The recovery of the private sector gets the community essential goods and services back to work.
- The local economy is more resilient when the private-sector's survivability is enhanced.
- CEAS does not rely on taxpayer dollars to implement. Instead, it is funded by private-sector participation in the program.

Visit www.CEAS.com for more information or contact us at:

Support@CEAS.com